Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed January 30, 2006 concerning the Dobbins reference have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argued that Dobbins does not disclose a multiplexer and demultiplexer. However, the switch of Dobbins is a multiplexer because the switch (fig. 5, item 13) allows information from several separate hosts (items 20G-20I; fig. 1, M11; col. 4, lines 14-17) to be transmitted on one link (e.g., line between items 13 and 14 or line between items 13 and 11; col. 6, lines 20-21 and 34-35). The switch is a demultiplexer because it allows information received from one link (e.g., line between items 13 and 14 or line between items 13 and 11) to be transmitted to several end stations (col. 6, lines 34-35, 37-39 and 43-45). In the specification, Applicant's multiplexer (fig. 4, item 114) takes traffic from several sources and transmits it on one link (page 18, lines 16-22) and Applicant's demultiplexer (fig. 4, item 112) takes traffic from one link and transmits it to several sources (page 18, lines 4-6 and 10-15). Therefore, Dobbins discloses a multiplexer and demultiplexer as defined in the specification.
2. Applicant's arguments filed January 30, 2006 concerning the Tsukakoshi reference have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 30 and 32-33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Dobbins et al. (US 5,684,800).

3. Regarding claim 30, Dobbins discloses a node for telecommunication (Figure 5, one of items 11-14) comprising a first port (item 11, port 1) and a second port (item 11, port 3) where each port includes an inherent receive-transmit pair comprising an inherent multiplexer to process egress traffic and an inherent demultiplexer to process ingress traffic (note: traffic to an end station is from different sources and traffic from an end station is destined to different destinations -- col. 5, lines 25-31 and col. 6, lines 13-17). The node also comprises an interface to an external network (Figure 5, item 16 and other trunks to SFPS switches) connected to an internal network (ports 1-3) including the node. The node includes a processing system (Figure 3) to store a first routing model for a first port group including the first port (Figure 7, VLAN 100) and one other geographically distributed port (col. 7, lines 6-12) and to store a second routing model for a second port group including the second port (Figure 7, VLAN 20) and one other geographically distributed port (col. 7, lines 6-12). The first port is programmable to process traffic based on the first routing model and the second port is programmable to process traffic based on the second routing model (col. 6, lines 33-45). As presented in the current claim amendment, the first and second ports are associated with network addresses that are inherently disparate (col. 1, lines 33-35; col. 5, lines 14-30). The first routing model (Figure 7, VLAN 100) has only the topology of the first port group and the second routing model (VLAN 20) has only the topology of the second port group.

4. Regarding claims 32-33, the processing system comprises an inherent first CPU to operate the node and an inherent second CPU to be the primary CPU for a port group or groups and to distribute the routing model(s) to each of the ports in the port group(s) (col. 7, lines 6-18).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-8, 12-19, 21-22, 26-29, 34-38 and 41 are allowed.
